IN THE GOLD COUNTRY.

AN OLD MINER TALKS OF THE EARLY DAYS IN THE BLACK HILLS.

An interesting talk over a camp fire, Buckskin Jack's hunt for the Indian. How Wild Dan brought in a Coach Load of Dead Passengers.

As I was traveling through Colorado and Montana on a trip for my health I struck the town of Big Sandy, M. T. The little city was all excitement over the reported discovery of gold and silver in the Sweet Grass hills, a distance of sixty miles northwest of Big Sandy, and the town was filled with prospectors of all descriptions, from the old timer of 40 to the youth fresh from the east in search of his fortune, all bound for the new gold and silver fields.

As I had plenty of time on my hands and wanted a little excitement, I joined a prospecting party. We started for the promised land the next day, and on the second day out we were in sight of the East Buttes. I rode on in advance of the party, and as it was getting dark I was looking for some shelter in which to pass the night. After riding haphazard for nearly an hour I saw the welcome light of a prospectors' camp fire and rode toward it.

TRAILING A PESKY INDIAN. The camp proved to be a party of bluff, good natured miners, who had been in this section and the Black Hills for a number of years. In answer to my inquiries as to securing a place to put up with them, one of them said:

"Wal, stranger, our 'commodations' are pretty poor, but I reckon if you kin stan' it we kin."

After eating a supper of jerked beef, hard tack and coffee the boys began to tell stories of their experiences in the days of the frontier. One of them, who went by the name of Buckskin Jack, said:

"Wal, boys, this here rush makes a feller think of the early days of the Black Hills. The Indians wuz purty good durned mad and wuz makin' it middlin' lively for the boys. There wuz eight in our party when we struck camp in a gulch in the west part of the Hills. The first night we set it would be a purty good plan to set a guard. We drew cuts ter see who would be 'lected, an' of course I wuz the lucky man."

"As we wuz not bothered that night an' had saw no signs of any of the pesky Indians we did not set any guard the next night. We all turned in purty early an' wuz wuz a purty tired wuz soon asleep. 'Bout 12 o'clock, as near as I could reckon, I wuz waked by a noise as if some one wuz movin' 'bout the camp. I got up purty easy an' took a look 'round. At last I seed some 'thin' movin'. I foun' it wouldn't 'sturb the boys until I foun' out what the ruck et wuz. An' takin' my rifle, I walked towards the place whur I seed the 'thin' movin', an' as I wuz wuz only one, I thot I would foller him an' find out whar the camp wuz, so that we could come down on them an' stermiante ther whole outfit."

"Wal, ter make a long story short, I follered ther pesky Indian, as I thot, fur 'bout an hour, an' I foun' myself in the 'cintury of our camp again, an' I'll be goll durned if I won't be kicked into the middle of next summer if my Indian didn't turn out to be one of our boys who wuz a-walkin' in his sleep. I wuz purty mad, but I sneaked inter my blanket, an' 'hov never said a word 'bout it until t'night."

DAN DRIVES THE OLD SHEBANG. "Wal, I gess it wuz a purty good thing that you didn't hear the last of it, or else you'd never heard the last of it," said Wild Dan, "but I gess I'll tell yer a little 'perience I had in Cheyenne in '88."

"A lot of us boys came in from the range ter blow oursel's 'un' paint the town red, an' I gass we did it in fine style. I wuz paralyzed fur 'bout two days, an' when I finally tumbled ter myself I foun' I wuz busted an' didn't hev a penny an' that I would hev ter go back on the range fur six months, an' wuz kickin' myself fur bel'n' such a chump. Just then I saw a crowd of fellers goin' toards the Cheyenne and Deadwood stage office an' I joined ther crowd. The stage wuz drawn up before the office an' the six broncos were a chawing ther bit an' a wantin' ter be off. The driver of the stage had refused ter go, as ther road ag' wuz an' Inguns hed stopped an' robbed every stage fur a week, an' not a driver wuz ter use ter tell how it wuz done. Ther stage agent wuz tired, as ther wuz the Wells-Fargo treasure box an' six passengers that wanted ter go thro' to Deadwood. He offered $500 ter the man that would drive the stage thro' to Deadwood."

"I thot ter my self, Dan, old boy, here's yer chance, an' I stepped out from ther crowd and sez, 'Say, mister, Wild Dan's the man ter kin take yer old shebang thro' ter Deadwood. With old shebang thro' ter Deadwood, yeller, that I jumped inter the boot and yelled, 'Get in here, you fellers, thet's going with me, an' the agent an' six fellers jumped inter the coach. I picked up ther lines, cracked the whip an' wuz off on our journey. Just as we started some one hollered, 'Three cheers for brave Dan,' an' they wuz given with a will."

"Things went all right until we struck Deadman's Gulch, when out from behind some trees twelve men jumped, with rifles pointed at us, an' ordered me ter halt."

"Not by a durned site, sez I. 'An' I gave ther horses a cut with ther whip, an' pickin' up my repeating rifle I opened up on them, an' in less time than it takes ter tell it six road agents hed but the dust. I hed not been hurt, but my hat hed been shot off'n my head."

"I picked up my lines an' tried ter stop ther horses, but ther wuz no stop ter them, an' they run until they pulled up in front of ther stage door, an' ther stage agent stepped out, an' I looked inter ther passengers wuz safe, an' ther they wuz, every one of 'em dead, killed by the road agents' bullets."

"The stage agent sez: 'Three cheers for Dan, ther only man that's bro't a stage thro' fur a week.'"

"There's the idee, sez I: 'If I can't bring 'em alive I'll bring 'em dead.'"

HARD HIT ON THE FIELD.

Peccoliar Sensations Which Many a Brave Man Has Experienced.

We had been held in reserve for five long hours while cannon thundered and muskets crackled spitefully along the front of a mile away. A procession of dead and wounded had filed past us until we were sick with horror. Shot and shell and bullet had fallen upon us behind the woods until the dry, dead grass bore many a stain of blood.

"Attention! Forward—guide right—march!"

Our brigade was going in at last, and there was a look of relief on the face of every officer and man as we got the word.

"Guide right—front—forward—march!"

As we swung clear of the woods a gust of wind raised the smoke for a minute, and I saw the plain in our front blue with dead and wounded. Away beyond there was a line of earthworks, and I had one swift glimpse of a thin blue line kneeling behind the cover.

"Steady! Right dress! Double quick—march!"

The air is alive with the ping of bullets and the whiz and shriek of shot and shell. We bend our heads as if breasting a fierce gale laden with icy pellets. There is a wild cry—a shriek—a groan as men are struck and fall to the earth, but no one heeds them—no one hesitates. It is a hurricane of death, and I feel a wild exultation in breasting it. Men shout, curse, sing, swing ther hats and cheer.

We are driving through the smoke cloud when there is a flash of fire in front. I seem to rise into the air and float hither and thither, and the sensation is so dreamy and full of rest that I wish it could last forever. It is sudden ly broken by the sound of my own voice. Is it my voice? It sounds strange and afar off to me. Why should I cheer and curse by turns? What has happened?

Ah! now I come back to earth again. Above and around me is the smoke—the earth trembles under the artillery—men are lying about and beside me. Where is the brigade? Why did I drop out? I am lying on my back, and I struggle to sit up and look around. I rise to my knees—weave this way and that—topple over and struggle up again. There is red, fresh blood on the grass—on my hands—on my face. I taste it on my lips as my parched tongue thrusts itself out in search of moisture.

Who is groaning? Who is shrieking? Who is cheering? And why should I laugh and exult? Have I held the line against a grand charge? Did we scatter and decimate the legions hurled against us? Have we won a great victory to be flashed over the country and cause the bells to ring with gladness? Let me think. Give me time to remember how it all happened. Strange that my thoughts should be so confused, and the desire to sleep be so strong upon me when I should be up and doing. I will shake it off. I will spring up and follow on after the brigade. Here—

"How do you feel?" My eyes are wide open and I am lying on a cot in a large room. I see people walking about—other people lying on cots like my own. "I feel all right. Why?" "You were hard hit in the fight four days ago, my boy."

"So there was a battle?"

"Yes."

"And I was wounded?"

"Had your left arm shattered by a piece of shell and we had to amputate it."

Corp. Tanner Wins a Bet.

In the office of one of the prominent hotels one evening was overheard quite an amusing story of Corp. Tanner and his two artificial legs. It seems that the corporal is very fond of fine horses and undertook to raise a few last year. He had one particularly fine horse, a thoroughbred, and he would let no one use him but himself. One day while the stableman was exercising him he accidentally stepped into a mud hole and sprained a leg so badly that the doctor advised having the horse's hoof bathed in hot water three times a day.

One day, when the gallant corporal was giving the horse the customary bath, a friend of his came along and told him it was cruelty to animals to bathe the horse's foot in such warm water, and asked him how would he like it if he had to put his foot in it. To which the corporal replied that he would not mind it at all. His friend, thinking he saw a chance to win some money, bet him a hundred dollars that he would not keep his foot in the water for five minutes. The bet was no sooner said than it was accepted by the corporal, who not only put his foot in it, but put his whole leg in and kept it there for five minutes.

The friend paid the bet, but probably has not to this day found out how it was possible for the supposed victim to keep his foot in boiling water for five minutes.—Washington Critic.

Count Molke.

Count Molke appears in public only when the reichstag is sitting, and until quite lately he was one of the most regular members of the house, where he takes a front seat on the Conservative benches. If a speech is made in which he is particularly interested, he gets up, approaches the speaker, and holds his hands to his ear, in order to catch every word. He himself speaks very rarely, and the last time he said a few words was last year, when he moved a vote of thanks to the president at the conclusion of the session.—Atlanta American.

Stealing the Slipper.

At weddings among Germans in the southern colonies 150 years ago, the groomsmen attended in their beautifully embroidered white aprons. Their duty was to protect the bride from having her slipper stolen from her foot. If any one succeeded in capturing the groomsmen paid a bottle of wine for the loss, as the bride's dancing depended upon it.—Brooklyn Eagle.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TEHAMA COUNTY.

10,378 27-100 Acres Township 25 N, Range 7 W, Mt. Diablo Meridian.

This township lies on the eastern slope of the Coast Range of mountains, and from 15 to 20 miles west from Red Bluff, the county seat of Tehama County. The field notes of the U. S. Surveyor who laid out this township, says "This township is well adapted for grazing, as it affords pasturage for large herds of cattle. It is well watered by the various tributaries of Elder Creek. It is also very valuable for its timber, which consists of a heavy growth of yellow and sugar pine, spruce, and cedar. There is a heavy undergrowth of chaparral, chemical and manzanita." The even sections are in most instances government land, so that the parts most valuable as adjuncts to this range might easily be secured at government price, namely $2.50 per acre for single quarter sections.

In Section 9, coal was discovered recently by some herders, but nothing has been done to develop the mine, although samples which have been tested show the coal to be of excellent quality.

We are assured that a Railroad heading for the Coast, and running through the Coast Range timber belt will be built very near this ranch. Price for the whole, consisting of 10,378 27 100 acres will be $55,000.

A POLITICAL SENSATION.

Remarkable Utterances of a Colored Republican Organ.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 22.—Some-what of a political sensation has been caused here to-day by the following editorial from the South, the new organ of the progressive element among the colored Republicans:

"The greatest menace to Republican ascendancy in our State is the large ignorant colored majority that must be marshaled against Democracy to secure such an end. Disguise the matter as we may, the fact remains that such a condition of affairs is alarming to many good men, and as long as it is a contest between races the result must continue as it is, and the negro must go to the wall. And yet it has been the deliberate practice for years to force out of the party every self-respecting white man who happens to object to the peculiar methods in vogue, and to prevent any other from uniting therewith. In other words, the party was confined to a select few, the fewer the better, in order that the offices might go around when the distribution is made. In our own towns there are white men of character, intelligence and means, who have been voting the Republican ticket all their lives and are still voting, that have neither standing nor recognition in what is known as the Union Republican party of the county. Is it necessary to say that such a policy is suicidal, or that no party can hope to survive very long by such treatment of its best material? We think not.

"The question answers itself. The President has given the Southern question a great deal of careful thought and patient study. He understands it thoroughly in all its bearings, and is heartily desirous of doing the very best thing possible to remedy the evils that exist. So, if he has come to the conclusion that new blood should be introduced into the party, and taken this method and occasion of inaugurating the movement, we think he has performed his simple duty to a large majority of the people of our State, whose best interest requires a change. It is a commendation devoutly to be wished. The President shall have our earnest support in any effort he may make to secure an end, and we feel that he will receive the cheerful seconding of all efforts looking to the accomplishment of such a purpose from all honest Republicans in the State of both races. It is time to unload."

Old line Republicans refuse to have anything to say about the editorial, but the younger colored Republicans speak out boldly and say that the negro must take a back seat if the Republican party is ever to get a foothold in the South.

THE HEAVY WEIGHTS.

Sullivan Behaving Himself, and Kilrain Very Confident.

BELFAST, June 23.—If John L. Sullivan is not in thorough condition for his approaching fight with Kilrain it will not be for the want of thorough, conscientious effort. There may, of course, be a "slip between the cup and the lip," but in Sullivan's "piping days of peace" he tackles no cup stronger than coffee, and his lip is a stranger to a slug but the plainest kind of food. His muscles are as supple as iron, and his wind is undoubtedly as good as it ever was. He seems to have developed something of a double chin, and his arms, when the muscles are relaxed, look plump and puffy. A friend told him yesterday that if the fight lasted over ten rounds Kilrain would win. "The fight will not last ten rounds," the big fellow replied grimly, "but even if it should last fifty rounds I will never allow it to end like the Chantilly fiasco. I was in no condition at that time, but the man that does me now will have to be twice the man that Mitchell ever was."

Trainers Muldoon and Cleary will probably keep Sullivan at his work until three days before the battle, when they will take their departure for New Orleans. Muldoon is confident that Sullivan will be able to fight the battle of his life.

BALTIMORE, June 23.—Jake Kilrain has now been training eight days for the greatest fight of his life. He is now trained down to 106 pounds, and expects to work off enough by July to reduce his weight to 180 pounds, his fighting figure. He is in splendid health, and his already great strength is daily increasing. He declares that he is not a bit afraid of the big fellow's rushes, and relies upon his ability to avert them and compel his rival to retreat to a distance from the brute strength upon which he has principally relied to defeat his other opponents.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Frank Stevenson, William Donovan and William Harding, Jake Kilrain's backers, left this morning for New Orleans. Their mission is to select a battle-ground for the Sullivan-Kilrain fight.

The brakemen of the Wadsworth and Truckee Division of the Central Pacific have organized a lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Brakemen at Wadsworth, and have named the lodge after the late Harry Wilson, who met a tragic death at Lough-ton's Switch in a collision.

CON. CAL. & VA. PROBABLE JUNE YIELD.
The bullion yield of the Con. Cal. & Va. mine the current month will exceed that of May over $30,000, provided the assay value of ore extracted does not fall below the average of that so far produced on June account. The assays so far this month average nearly $3 per ton higher than last month. It requires a gross bullion yield of nearly $330,000 to cover operating expenses and a fifty cent dividend, and the prospect is promising that the June product will reach that figure.

A REGION FERTILE IN GOLD.
The discovery of another vein of gold-bearing quartz assaying high in the yellow metal is reported two miles northwest of Jumbo district. The vein has a breadth of 30 inches between walls, six inches of which, next to the hanging wall, is very high grade, gold being plainly discernible in the ore without the aid of a magnifying glass. The character of the ore is entirely different from that heretofore found on the western slope of Mount Davidson. It is dark grey in color and pulverizes with a blow of a shovel. It is the only vein so far discovered in that vicinity with well defined walls of the same material as those enclosing the Comstock lode. The western slope of Mount Davidson bids fair to become as famous for its production of gold bullion as the eastern slope is for silver.

ALTA AND BENTON.
A correspondent is informed that in the suit of the Alta vs. the Benton Mining Company, action is brought by the former to recover the sum of above $7,000, alleged due from the Benton Company for housing and lowering men and material through the Alta shaft. The Benton Company does not deny being indebted to the Alta, but claims the price charged per carload for waste was excessive. The court has ordered $10 per carload for housing from the 725 level, whereas but 65 cents has been charged by other Comstock companies for housing from a greater depth. The trial of the case is set for July 1.

SUTRO TUNNEL ROYALTY.
The Sutro Tunnel Company will collect above $300,000 in royalty on Comstock ore the current year. This will exceed by above $50,000 the revenue of the company from that source during any single year since the completion of the tunnel. The expenses of the company, will probably not exceed $50,000 annually. The company is extending the tunnel one mile west of its present terminus, which will bring it under the peak of Mount Davidson, will not exceed $200,000.

WHAT ON EARTH
Is the reason people will not, can not or do not any difference in cheap nostrums put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at all prices? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as DR. BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work will cost you nothing.

RULES OF THE TRACK.

Entrance to all trotting and running races to close with the Secretary at 9 o'clock P. M. on Tuesday, August 20, 1889.
All entries to be made in writing, to give sex, color and marks of horses. Also name and residence of owner, and in running races colors to be worn by rider, and any other particulars that will enable the audience to distinguish the horse in the race.
Write "Entries to Races," on outside of envelope and seal.
Entrance fee ten per cent of purse, to accompany entries.
In all races, 5 or more to enter and 3 or more to start.
National Association rules to govern trotting, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, if necessary to finish any day's racing, or to trot a special race between the heats, or change the order of races advertised for any day.

Unless otherwise ordered by the Board, no horse is qualified to be entered in any district race that has not been owned, or kept in the District six (6) months prior to the day of the race, and any entry by any person of any disqualified horse shall be held liable for the entrance fee contracted, without any right to compete for a purse, and shall be held liable to penalties prescribed by the National Association and Rules of the State Agricultural Society and expulsion from a race.

If, in the opinion of the Judges, any race cannot be completed on the closing day of the Fair, it may be continued or deferred off at the option of the Judges.
In all races noted above, five or more paid up entries required to fill and three or more horses to start, but the Board reserves the right to hold races and start a race with a less number of starters, and a proportionate amount of the purse.

When less than the required number of starters appear they may contest for the entrance money, to be divided as follows: 60% to the first and 40% to the second.
Rules of the State Agricultural Society to govern running races except where conditions named are otherwise.

The Board reserves the right to change the order of each day's races.
Any person not intending to start his horse must notify the Secretary in writing on or before 6 o'clock the evening previous to the day of the race. Horses entered in races can only be withdrawn by consent of the Judges.

For a walk over in any race a horse shall be entitled only to his own entrance fee and one-half of the entrance received from the other entries. For a sold purse, and a horse winning a race entitled to receive bank building, according to plans and specifications now on file with the undersigned. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will serve cake, ice cream and lemonade at the Baptist Church on the afternoon and evening of the Fourth of July. An invitation, extended to all our friends to come, see and taste of all our goodies.

During the last session of the Legislature, appropriation was made to erect a monument in the Grand Army cemetery at Carson. As the Carson papers have not mentioned the fact it is probable that work on the monument has not yet been commenced.

Baseball League.

Now that the baseball fever has again struck the lovers of the National game in this State, a League should be at once organized so that different clubs could come together in friendly contests for the Nevada championship. Good clubs are in existence in Virginia, Gold Hill, Carson, Reno, Winnemucca, Tuscarora, Hawthorne and Truckee, with members who would do credit to the California League in the diamond field. Essex and Verdi might also be added, as each of these little towns has a good nine. There is no doubt but what the State Fair Directors could be induced to offer good purses and a championship medal for a series of games to be played here during the Fair here this Fall, if the League was organized, as it would be a big feature and attract more people to the Fair. The Reno club should start the ball rolling and will undoubtedly meet with the hearty co-operation of the business men if the proper start is made.

Why Not?

Now that the Reno Guard are again in a flourishing condition, would it not be a good idea for them to indulge in target practice, and emulate the Carson Guard and Nevada Rifle Association which are now so prominent in target shooting. Surely there are among our boys some who will make very good marksmen with practice. Look at the Carson Guard, most of the present team are young men raised in Carson, and several are worthy foemen of the oldest members. Those in command of the Reno Guard should give this matter attention, and soon Reno can boast of a No. 1 rifle team.

Fourth of July.

The Executive Committee are hard at work arranging the programme for the Fourth of July celebration in Reno, and will have it ready to present to the public to-morrow. They desire the business men to help them as much as possible, and every merchant should represent his business in the procession in some manner, thus adding to the success of the parade and at the same time advertise his wares. Chas. Leeper has charge of the "Horribles" and will undoubtedly make it a feature of the day. Let everybody lend the committee a helping hand and keep the money expended on the Fourth at home.

SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

"The Hill of Knowledge" and "Class History," Essays Delivered by Members of the Class of '89.

Below the JOURNAL reproduces the essay of Mary Hopkins and the "Class History" by Louisa Lewis. Vesta Rice's prediction of Miss Lewis' future is also published:

THE HILL OF KNOWLEDGE.

It is early dawn! Aurora has just touched the cloudy curtains to draw them aside in order that her brother may begin his daily course across the heavens. The last faint streaks of darkness disappear, driven before the advancing waves of light radiating from Apollo's Obelisk. The first rays touch the peak of a lofty mountain frowning on the world beneath from its mighty and prominent position.

At the foot, gazing upward with longing eyes, stands a young girl ready to start on a long, hard way up the mountain. She talks laughingly with her friends, telling them she is sure she will be the first to reach the top. No one chides or stops her; some think of the dangers she will meet; the hearts of others are filled with envy of the pleasures she will enjoy. As the faint flush of dawn gives place to the deeper glow of the early morning and the glorious orb of day appears, the signal for her to start is given. For a time her path is filled with childish joy. The branches of the forest oaks and hemlocks join in a canopy above and the grass forms a velvet carpet beneath. She hurries onward singing snatches of songs and planning for her future after the race has been won. Suddenly her foot slips and she falls forward, but not discouraged she soon resumes her path, though now with more care. Great is the fatigue experienced in overcoming the many obstacles. She casts her eyes around and is surprised to find that she is not alone on this mountain, as seemed at first.

In front of her and on all sides are many bound for the same destination that she is striving to reach. Some are plodding forward, now falling, now rising, for "Onward" is their motto; while others fall to rise no more.

As she proceeds the path becomes more difficult to climb, the trees are scattered here and there, the grass has entirely disappeared.

Great rocks that must be passed, surmounted her path. Near a big boulder she stops a moment then mounts it with great toil, and rests a short time after her unwonted exertion.

Our traveler is attracted by what seems to her strange marks on the rocks. On close examination they prove to be the names of men and women who have traveled this same road and have since become famous.

Shakespeare is written in a large bold hand while just below appears the name of John Dryden. How plainly does the difference in their chirography show their want of resemblance in character. A little to the left in a less conspicuous place is another inscription in strong and characteristic writing. Our traveler is comparing this line by those written by famous men in the world of knowledge, when her reverie is interrupted by these words: "Why should men do all the deeds in which the pride of a scholar delights? Here is an example of what woman can accomplish. Is any one ready to deny to her an intellect equal to man's, while the name of George Eliot stands as a positive proof of what woman can do and will do again?"

Not only the names of world renowned writers are found here, but also those of sculptors and painters.

Among the latter appears foremost the name of Michael Angelo with these words below: "Perseverance is genius." A motto worthy to be the guiding rule of any life.

And quickly our traveler determines that it shall be hers, not only during her present trials but until life's end.

The race is nearly won, her mind is filled with thoughts of the victory that is soon to come. A few more steps and the summit will be reached; why should she pause so suddenly? At her feet is a yawning chasm seemingly of infinite depth.

As she gazes into it the sides, as far as the eye can reach, appear to be perpendicular, and the darkness so intense that she is prone to consider it the bottomless pit.

She draws back to prepare for the final leap, knowing full well that one false step will cost her more than life. She makes the leap and her foot just grazes the edge.

Tired by her long ascent she looks forward hoping, any heart expecting, to see her goal but her heart sinks as she beholds still another obstacle.

Not waiting to rest, she hurries forward and soon is at the end of her path. She gazes with hungry eyes on those still struggling for the eminence she has already gained, but as she glances back the haughty expression leaves her face, and with humble eyes she looks on a still more lofty mountain rising hundreds of feet beyond until the top is lost in the distance. Then steals over her something of the reality of life, and she knows that while she lives she must climb; each day, each hour there is something to learn, and that the heights by great men reached and kept were not attained by sudden flight.

And what is the meaning of this race? We have been looking at the Hill of Knowledge, and this young girl is only one toiling in the same path. Their ways, as hers were pleasant at first, but as the path grew steeper, as the climber advanced in years, so did the tasks increase. All were obliged to leap the chasm of examinations; all had to overcome the final obstacle, an obstacle too well known to mention.

But she has gained what she sought, and a feeling of pride fills her heart as she becomes conscious of the possession of that "knowledge which is power."

And now, kind friends, you have heard me patiently while I have again discussed this well known subject, "The Hill of Knowledge." I crave your attention a little longer.

Has it been said that this hill is only a phantom of the imagination? Listen, then, while I tell you of such a hill, one you have all seen.

It is our own hill, crowned by our school. Perhaps some will say that this is not steep, and is doubtless easy to climb.

But we who have to-day reached the summit can testify that our victory has been won only by toil and by perseverance; that though apparently smooth there have been many hidden obstacles in the ascent of our own "Hill of Knowledge."

CLASS PROSPERITY.

Dear Classmates—To me have you given the task of foretelling your future; a task which I have gladly undertaken. Although, in past days, but slightly acquainted with time to come, I have now pierced its very depths and have become, truly, a "Sibyl of the future."

My work may be compared to that of a builder, who transforms such scattered materials as boards, nails, stones and plaster into a perfect structure that shall stand till fate determines its fall.

So it is with each life. All lives are decided and the future reckoned by the individual characteristics possessed in a greater or less degree by all. In some cases, it is true, the materials are scant but "we shall cut our garment according to our cloth," and present the whole in its most pleasing light knowing that the best of prophets of the future is the past.

First, our dear President, who has now so creditably completed her term of office, demands our attention. She no longer calculates with eagerness such quasi domestic questions as the number of chickens required for a large party of seven girls and about fourteen gentlemen, or the cream necessary for the coffee of said party. She has chosen other paths. Following her footsteps we see her in spheres of life widely differing from those she has thus far pursued. During the short period of her society life and the few years spent in school teaching, she became the "symbol of all human wisdom and perfection" in the eyes of at least six of the Carson and Reno gallants. No longer able to resist them she disappeared suddenly from all her friends, found refuge in an unknown land, and is now known as a nurse in a home for suffering children, where her sweet, soothing voice is a welcome sound to all. Here she lives to comfort and to lighten many a little troubled heart.

In Eastern society, where well she is known, is our great Mamie who is never found alone. In this sphere she moves about with a well-known, bright cadet, cutting many a poor girl out with all success as yet.

Then to Germany she goes to cultivate her genius. What she'll be, who knows? Ah! I can tell the seniors, she'll be known both far and near.

No one can do her equal. On opera stage she will appear and thus obtain high merit.

The pink of our class has blossomed most successfully in the warm climate of India. After some years of labor in this country she felt that her duty called her to a different sphere of toil; and we now read in foreign papers—and a similar article I noticed in the morning chronicle—of the reformation of nunneries; Hindu mothers who have been in the habit of throwing their precious babes into the Ganges to be devoured by the alligators and crocodiles. These ignorant mothers have been convinced that there are no gods to be appeased, and they will feel forever grateful to the one who has proved herself to be such a "pearl of great price."

It is needless to introduce our artistic member in more than a few words. Everyone knows of her success in conversation, at least with the aid of electricity, for has not her skill been chronicled far and near? She does not confine herself, however, to the pleasures of the "Peanut Line," for on the banks of the Truckee river one may see, in the year 1900, an artistic mansion, the large bay windows of which overlook the magnificent scenery of the afore-said river. If one may be allowed to enter the sanctum surrounded by those walls, he would see a large room with statues in bronze and marble artistically arranged, and the daintily tinted walls partly covered with the paintings of the old masters. Before an easel, on which a half finished picture is resting, sits a well-known figure. The picture is, at present, not progressing, for the artist is gazing meditatively from the window, wondering if the picture she is now painting will be as successful as the last, which hundreds of people came to see at the "Art Academy" lately established at Reno City.

A teacher's trials. One girl will undertake, The many dentists And untold heartache.

The town is small, It is not far from here, The work of "oil-cloth" Has been tried for many a year.

And now one glance, Who can the teacher be! If we look into her face, It is Edna that we see.

The same persevering And ever patient girl, Her classes hearing With never a scornful curl.

We now come to the thrilling story of the great Rites of our class. Not that we, as a class, have in any way risen to cause a disturbance, but this one member of whom I am speaking has risen to unparalleled glory by her literary achievements.

We always knew that bright, clever Vesta would some day be distinguished. She was not "born to blush unseen." Her writings are known and read, not only in America, but have been translated into French, German and many other languages, of which translation we are daily hearing, and they are now known as standard works.

My prophetic role is now unfolded, my threads are partially woven, but—When shall this wonderful web be done? In a thousand years perhaps, or one? Or to-morrow. Who knows? Not you or I, But the wheels turn on, and the shuttle whir.

Are we spinners of wool for this life-day? Do we furnish the weavers a thread each day? It were better then, O my friends, to spin A beautiful thread than a thread of sin.

Ah, and so weaver, the years are slow, But each one is nearer the end, I know; And some day the last thread shall be woven in, God grant it be love instead of sin.

Following is the prophecy of Louisa Lewis as told by Vesta Rice:

Once more the prophetic roll must be brought forth, for our own sybil, who has so truthfully pictured the future destinies of her classmates, has looked the power to foresee the lights and shadows of her own life.

When the dark curtain of the future is drawn aside there is revealed a lady seated in a professor's chair in one of the leading colleges of the United States. The place of honor now occupied by our classmate is that of the professor of astronomy in this institution of learning.

For once the present has failed to overshadow the future; and Lou, who has always been regarded as the quietest of the seven, instead of fulfilling the destiny chosen for her has surprised her early friends by devoting her life to scientific study. From the time she finished school she has traveled through Persia, Assyria, Chaldea and other places, noted as the first to gain some knowledge of the heavenly bodies. She has not only profited by modern discoveries but has also made the wisdom of the ancients her own, and now she is imparting the knowledge thus gained to the youthful minds that surround her in her daily career.

She has not yet passed the prime of life, and if the remaining years prove as successful as the former have been it is probable that she will live to see herself famous. Her life is not wholly devoted to the study of the stars, but she has made several discoveries in chemistry.

Little did the "Class of '89" think when they gazed at the heavens night after night to locate the constellations, that one of their number would ever occupy such a prominent position in the scientific world. And little did one think, when she spent her few spare moments during the summer evenings on the lawn with lamp and chart, that she would ever become, as now seems probable, a rival of Kepler or Newton.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-awt-ly.

When baby was sick, We gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, She cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, She clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, She gave them Castoria.

250 Beautiful Lots For Sale!

A RARE CHANCE FOR AN INVESTMENT AND A HOME.

THE MOST LOVELY PORTION OF RENO.

Facing the Truckee—The Aristocratic Avenue—Riverside Driveway—Splendid Sewerage—Healthy Location and Safe From Fire.

The proprietor is now ready to receive proposals for lots in Powning's Addition. The map gives a good idea of the tract, which is situated between the Central Pacific Railroad and the Truckee River, and commences on the west at a point three blocks distant from Virginia Street, making it the most central and convenient of any portion of the rapidly growing town of Reno. Unlike any other part of the town this Addition faces the beautiful Truckee River and Riverside Avenue is certain to become the fashionable driveway of the country. The streets are 80 feet wide, while Riverside and Keystone Avenues are intended to be 100 feet in width. All alleys are 20 feet wide. The soil is a rich gravelly loam, and susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Being situated as it is it is more safe from fire than any other section. The regular lots are 50x140 feet. The sewerage is perfect.

RENO

Reno's geographical position is excellent. It is on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, only 154 miles from Sacramento, and 244 miles from San Francisco. It is the terminus of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad running south, and of the Nevada and California Railroad running north. It has two Flouring Mills, Planing Mills, three Nurseries, a Soap Factory, Reduction Works, and other industries. A great Woolen Mill and a Sash, Door, Blind and Box Factory, are about to be established.

Reno has the Bank of Nevada with $300,000 capital, and the First National Bank with $200,000 capital. It has two fine papers in the DAILY and WEEKLY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL and the Daily and Weekly Gazette.

Reno is the natural home of the Alfalfa, and therefore the great cattle headquarters of the State. Here are fed the prime beef for the California market. Reno potatoes are the best in the world, and she also excels in Strawberries and the small fruits. Reno Wheat took the first prize at the great New Orleans Exposition.

The State Fair is always held at Reno.

Reno is the County Seat of Washoe County, the wealthiest county in Nevada.

RENO

Has no equal in Nevada or California for salubrity of climate, wealth of soil, diversity of products and stability. Situated in the very heart of the celebrated Truckee Meadows the future of Reno is assured. Reno is the City of Homes. There is not a house to rent in Reno. New buildings are occupied as fast as erected. Reno has advantages which no other town can equal. The climate is mild and genial in Winter, and even and healthful in Summer. There are no excessively heated or severely cold terms, and while the days may be warm in Summer the nights are deliciously cool; in Winter sleigh-riding is the exception and not the rule.

Facilities for irrigating surpass any in the State and there is no failure of crops. Reno has Churches of all denominations, Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls, Mt. St. Mary's Academy, the State University, and splendid Public Schools.

The Reno Water Co. furnishes ample pure, cold water for all purposes. The Reno Electric Light Co.'s electric light system, already well established, is being augmented. The Reno Gas Co. supplies gas for all purposes. The streets of Reno are lighted by electricity.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, in and for the County of Washoe. The State of Nevada sends to Louis Alexander, Esquire:

GEORGE S. SMITH, LOUIS ALEXANDER.

You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you on and before August 15, 1889, in the District Court of the County of Washoe, in and for the County of Washoe, and answer the complaint therein filed, and to appear on the service on you of this summons, (exclusive of the day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases, forty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover the sum of fourteen hundred and twenty-seven dollars and twenty-seven cents, and a promissory note for two hundred and fifty dollars and interest thereon from April, A. D., 1885, and on an account for $1,000.00 for hay and straw delivered by said George S. Smith to said Louis Alexander between April 11, 1887 and February 6, 1889, all of which will more fully appear from the complaint which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said county, and to which you are especially referred.

And you are further notified, that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded. In testimony whereof, we have hereunto set our hands this 25th day of April, A. D., 1889.

CLARKE A. JONES, Attorney for Plaintiff.
